

At Constant Power Solutions (CPS), we understand that when you're buying a generator for your organization or personal use, you need it to meet your specific needs. We'll not only help you choose the right one for you, but we'll be there every step of the way once you have and own the Diesel generator.

For these reasons, we offer aftersales, which is a well-planned service and maintenance program for our customers. We offer this perk in the UK and internationally via our appointed dealers for your area. It's a crucial part of the Diesel generator buying process so that your power generation system continues to operate optimally in the future. Learn reasons to use it and what benefits it will have for you.

Reasons to Consider Aftersales Service

To get the most out of your purchase, it's important that you pay attention to and continue to follow the maintenance recommendations. While your Diesel generator should be serviced every 500 hours or one year, whichever comes soonest, it's also wise to consider partaking in our aftersales program. We pride ourselves on offering Diesel generator servicing options so that you are satisfied with your product and know that you have our continued support and expertise to help you every step of the way. You need your power generation system to operate fully now and in the days ahead. Therefore, an aftersales service can help ensure you can continue to use your Diesel generator without any hassle.

Benefits of the Offering

When you choose to take advantage of the aftersales service, you can get your questions answered and keep your product in good working condition. You won't have to make a crucial decision on your own about how to ensure it continues to function optimally. Our servicing team and appointed dealers will advise you towards the best package, which is tailored towards you and your budget.
